Writing Exercise

So here is your task: describe what you see, smell, hear, taste, and feel at this exact moment.

Do you smell axe body spray wafting from across the room? Do you hear a classmate munching on a cookie? Is your best friend giving you a sinister-looking stare trying to get you to laugh. Do your palms feel sweaty because you have no idea what to write about? Is Mike wearing a colorful Minecraft t-shirt that is distracting you.

You need to creatively describe what you observe at this precise moment. You can be funny, descriptive, serious, or--well--anything you want to be.

Just capture this moment in a creative way. And be prepared to share your description with the class
