Find the Nouns

A noun is a part of speech that denotes a person, place, thing, animal, idea, or event.

Here are some different kinds of nouns:

1. Proper Nouns: Names of specific people, places, or organizations (e.g., John, Paris, Microsoft).
2. Common Nouns: General names for a class of objects or a concept (e.g., cat, city, happiness).
3. Concrete Nouns: Things that can be experienced with the five senses (e.g., apple, dog, music).
4. Abstract Nouns: Ideas or concepts that cannot be seen or touched (e.g., freedom, love, intelligence).
5. Countable Nouns: Nouns that can be counted (e.g., book, car, idea).
6. Uncountable (or Mass) Nouns: Nouns that cannot be counted (e.g., water, rice, information).
7. Collective Nouns: Words that refer to a group of things or people (e.g., team, flock, committee).

Let's see how many nouns you can identify from the following paragraph. Underline each noun you encounter.

In Paris, John adopted a playful cat named Whiskers. Every morning, they'd stroll to the park, where the vibrant city buzzed with life. Amid the crowd, a jazz band played music that filled the air with joy. John often pondered freedom and love, abstract ideas that felt tangible in those moments. One day, a committee of artists painted a massive mural, their creativity flowing like water. As Whiskers chased butterflies, John marveled at the city's beauty, feeling a deep connection to the world around him. It was a moment of pure happiness, a rare and cherished experience in his busy life.
