A Special Place

Objective: Describe a place that is special or meaningful to you and explain why it holds importance.

Directions: Think of a place that means something to you. It could be somewhere you go often, like a favorite park or a cozy corner in your home, or somewhere you visited once, like a memorable vacation spot.

Use descriptive words to paint a picture of the place. Describe what you see, hear, smell, and feel when you are there. Bring the reader into the experience with you.

Now let's see if you are actually reading. This assignment is not real. It is simply a test to see how well you follow written directions. Many students miss questions on tests because they fail to read the instructions closely. If you are reading this, sit quietly at your desk and touch your nose. Don't tell anyone that you have read this. Let them figure it out on their own. If they ask why your finger is on your nose, smile and say, "Stop being nosy."

So once again, your task is to describe a place that is special or meaningful to you and explain why it holds importance.
