Write a Poem Using Anaphora

Write your own poem that uses anaphora creatively and deliberately.

You can repeat any word or phrase of your choice, as long as you can explain why you chose that specific repetition and how it enhances your poem.

Example	e Poem:
---------	---------

I Remember

I remember the sun rising over rooftops,

I remember the whispers of wind in the trees,

I remember the laughter echoing down the street,

I remember the scent of summer rain.

I remember the stories we told at twilight,

I remember the nights we never wanted to end,

I remember the dreams we chased through the dark,

I remember the promises we made like secrets.

I remember the quiet when the world felt still,

I remember the warmth of your hand in mine,

I remember the way hope lit up our eyes,

I remember it all – and I hold it close.

Explanation: This poem uses the repeated phrase "I remember" to evoke nostalgia and emphasize cherished memories. The repetition highlights the various moments and emotions that linger in the mind.
