Soundtrack Stories: Writing Inspired by Music

In this activity, you will write a 300-word creative story inspired by two songs that your teacher will play.

Part One: The First Song

- Listen carefully to the first song and use it to inspire the beginning of your story.
- Your writing should cover the exposition, rising action, and climax of the story.
- Aim to capture the mood, tone, or themes of the song in approximately 150 words.

Part Two: The Second Song

- After finishing the first part, listen to the second song.
- Use it to guide the continuation of your story, focusing on the falling action and resolution.
- Like the first part, this section should also be 150 words.

Let the songs shape your creativity–whether they inspire the setting, characters, emotions, or events in your story.  $\overset{\sim}{\frown}$

Song 1:

In approximately 150 words, craft the exposition, rising action, and climax of your story drawing inspiration from the song played.

Song 2: In approximately 150 words, craft the falling action and resolution of your story - drawing inspiration from the song played. Give Your Story a Title:
