Write a Short Story About a Storm

Your task: write a short story about a storm.

That's right—a storm.

But what kind of storm will it be?

Perhaps you're behind the wheel when the sky darkens, and the clouds begin to swirl like a Van Gogh painting in motion. Or maybe the storm takes on a life of its own, marching forward like an unstoppable army. You could even capture the eerie calm that lingers in the air the moment the storm finally breaks.

The perspective is yours to choose.

Will you be a sea captain bracing for a brutal tempest off the coast of Antarctica? An astronaut watching a hurricane spiral across the Earth below? A man desperately outrunning a tornado, the wind clawing at his heels?

Vhatever you choose, be vivid. Be creative. Let the storm take center stage.
