The 10-Sentence Story Gauntlet: Literary Device Edition

Your mission: Write a mini story in exactly 10 sentences, each with a unique challenge. Follow the rules strictly—and weave in as many literary devices (like alliteration, metaphor, simile, hyperbole, etc.) as possible while staying within the sentence constraints.

Sentence 1: Use one single word, but make it a powerful one (use metaphor or symbolism if possible).

Example: Ashes.

Sentence 2: Begin with “Suddenly,” and write a sentence that is between 16 and 20 words. Include personification.

Example: Suddenly, the thunder laughed above the hills as the wind raced through trees whispering secrets to each other.

Sentence 3: Use exactly 4 words and include alliteration.

Example: Fog floated, framing fear.

Sentence 4: Write a sentence between 7 and 10 words, and include a simile.

Example: The shadows clung to her like stubborn stains on silk.

Sentence 5: Include a food and sensory imagery (taste, smell, etc.)

Example: The scent of scorched cinnamon buns filled the ruined hallway.

Sentence 6: Include dialogue with a character expressing emotion (anger, joy, fear, etc.).

Example: 'I told you this would happen!' she shouted, fists trembling.

Sentence 7: Use exactly 3 words and a metaphor.

Example: Hope was wildfire.

Sentence 8: Begin with “Despite” and write at least 10 words, including an oxymoron.

Example: Despite the deafening silence, he heard every unsaid apology echo.

Sentence 9: Use between 2 and 5 words and include onomatopoeia.

Example: Crack! The ground split.

Sentence 10: End with exactly 10 words that conclude the story and include at least one internal rhyme.

Example: “She ran from pain, yet remained chained by the rain.”
