Example Story:

The sky turned purple as the sun dipped below the horizon. All I could think about was spaghetti as I stared at the sunset. The beauty of the place reminded me of Iceland. As I dribbled the soccer ball - the field's night lights flickered on. I felt like a cheetah on the pitch - as I had worked on my increasing my running speed for weeks. The summer air was still and perfect for me to kick the ball from a distance. I thought about passing the ball to Mike, but decided against it. "I wonder if people play soccer in snowy weather?" I thought to myself. That's when I realized I needed to focus on the soccer game like I focused on math equations. I kicked the soccer ball and got the Christmas gift of a lifetime - a game winning goal.
